WHO ARE WE?

Hi There!

I know exactly what it feels like to sit the GAMSAT and walk out frustrated. I've been there myself. When I started preparing for the GAMSAT I had no idea where to go.

I rebuilt my approach to Section 1 and 2 from the ground up. I studied philosophy, psychology, and literature. I built a framework that turned vague feedback like "lacks depth" into actionable steps. And eventually, I scored in the top 1% of GAMSAT students, landing a spot at the University of Sydney, Australia's most competitive medical school in terms of GAMSAT scores.

Since then, I've coached 800+ students across Australia, the UK, and Ireland, helping them do the same.

Why I Started Rohan's Tutoring

When I looked around, all I saw were $5000 prep companies charging absurd prices for recycled content. Students were paying more for branding than for results.

I wanted to create a different option: a tutoring service that's personal, affordable, and premium. Something that gives you the unfair advantage without draining your bank account.

THE SECTION 2 SLAM SYSTEM

The 3-Step Framework to Take Your Section 2 GAMSAT To The Next Level!

You know that sinking feeling when you stare at the quotes and have no idea how to start? Or maybe you walked out of your last sitting thinking, once again, that you've bombed GAMSAT Section 2.

I've seen this exact moment crush otherwise brilliant students. People who are more than capable of making it to med school but get stuck here. Most students fail in Section 2 for one reason: they walk in without a system.

Some of the common pain points I hear all the time as a tutor are:

- "I don't know what to write after I see the quotes."
- "How many paragraphs should I use?"
- "Other tutors say I lack depth but how do I fix that?"
- "I can't write enough in 30 minutes."
- "I'm just descriptive, not insightful, and it keeps my score low."

The truth is, Section 2 isn't testing how poetic you can be. It isn't testing how much of a politics or economics expert you are. And it most certainly isn't testing how many big words you can squeeze into a 30-minute essay.

Section 2 is a pressure test. It measures if you can think clearly, argue logically, and show the qualities that make a future medical professional. Markers want to see structure. They want depth. They want insight.

On the next page, I'll show you the exact system my students use to consistently hit 70+.

THE 3-STEP FRAMEWORK FOR SECTION 2 MAGIC

Step 1. The Sharp Thesis

Every strong essay begins with a thesis — a clear statement that directly answers the quotes and sets up where you're headed.

Keep it short, sharp, and arguable. Think of it as the anchor for everything that follows.

Example Thesis:

"The Western legal system has learned to accommodate unethical and illegal activity so long as it is within the overarching pursuit of unbridled capitalism."

Step 2. The Set-Up (Body Paragraph 1)

Your first body paragraph lays the foundation. It's the safe, logical point that earns the marker's trust.

- Topic Sentence: A straightforward claim that flows naturally from your thesis.
- Evidence: Use history, psychology, or current affairs.
- Explanation: Show why the evidence matters.
- Link: Point forward to the deeper layer you'll explore in the next paragraph.

Example Topic Sentence:

"The Western justice system is only as strong as the ethical and moral values of the citizens that it seeks to protect"

Step 3. Body Paragraph 2 – The "Slam Dunk"

Now you hit with force. This is where you push the insight further ~ a sharper, bolder claim that flows directly from Paragraph 1. The slam is not a new tangent, it's the logical extension of the set-up.

- Topic Sentence: A bold claim that escalates Para 1's logic and applies it to a modern problem/mutation.
- Evidence: Use of higher-level evidence (economic & political ideas, psychology, philosophy).
- Explanation: Show why this deeper layer matters. Give the marker a reason to care.
- Wrap: Circle back to the thesis and end with impact.

Example Topic Sentence:

The contemporary West's moral and ethical systems have been corrupted by unbridled, neoliberal capitalism.

"The set-up earns credibility. The slam delivers impact. Together, they create one continuous argument that feels cohesive, logical, and sophisticated."

ANNOTATED EXAMPLE; TASK A ESSAY-GLOBALISATION

Planes in the sky and ships in the seas. Images synonymous with integration of commerce and trade across the world. This wave of advancement in transportation and communication, which arose from 20th century industrialisation, gave rise to global integration. Yet globalisation, born of Neoliberalism, has become an ideology of its own, where a singular focus on economic unification distracts us from more significant interpersonal and local issues in today's Western societies. Ironically, the pursuit of economic wealth through globalisation is dividing us more than ever. Addressing social and environmental issues would connect us more meaningfully in a 'collective consciousness'.

This is the Sharp Thesis. Notice how it's bold, arguable, and points to a deeper insight about globalisation.

Globalisation, in breaking down economic barriers through free trade, has deepened class divides and exacerbated inequality across the West. Free trade promises wider markets and consumer access, but ignores capitalism's distorted zero-sum nature. For one multinational expanding abroad, hundreds of small businesses collapse. Those with capital to operate globally thrive, while smaller businesses falter, creating unemployment and hardship. Over time, this breeds resentment and entrenches a two-tier society, where opportunities and security are reserved for those at the top. Meanwhile, elites profit endlessly as their scale and brand power crush competition, consolidating wealth at unprecedented levels. Inequality rises both within and between nations. In Australia, the top 10% now hold more than half the wealth, compared with 42% in the 1980s. Such figures highlight that globalisation, while boosting efficiency and income growth for the wealthy, erodes the foundations of liberalism and fairness by widening the gulf between classes.

This is the Set-Up. It starts with a straightforward claim (inequality), backs it with concrete evidence and ends by reinforcing the thesis. It's safe, logical, and earns marker trust.

Sharp explanatory insight. Moves from description ("free trade benefits all") to critique ("zero-sum with systemic losers"). Markers love this step into analysis.

In its destructive singular focus on economic profits and expansion in trade, the commodification that necessarily emerges out of globalisation of our Western economies has blinded us from and exacerbates deeper social which not only pose more significant threats to our species but would act as a more appropriate vehicle for global unity and harmony. Mass production, trade and consumption have intensified carbon emissions, demanding urgent climate action. Neoliberal visions of a market insulated from politics ignore crises like climate change, which threaten globalisation itself. The myth of limitless growth collides with Earth's finite limits, exposing the fragility of an economic system obsessed with expansion. Climate instability fuels migration, conflict, and resource scarcity, showing how environmental breakdown undermines the very markets globalisation depends upon. Although treaties like the Paris Agreement reveal glimpses of cooperation, repeated failures to meet targets are tolerated because governments fear constraining economic growth. Globalisation has indeed improved consumer choice, lowered costs, and advanced technology, but these gains are hollow if they come at the expense of long-term survival and stability. To measure progress only in GDP while ignoring planetary and social costs is to mislabel decline as success.

This is the Slam Dunk. It escalates naturally from Paragraph 1 (inequality) into a more systemic critique (climate collapse, morality). Strong Slams grow out of Set-Ups.

These are the killer insights of a slam dunk. This is what separates descriptive essays from insightful ones. It zooms out, critiques the ideology itself, and forces the marker to pause.

Globalisation promised progress and higher living standards. Yet its obsession with efficiency blinds us to its consequences. Gains in consumption are outweighed by climate crises and deepening inequality. If our generation is to inherit a sustainable global order, efficiency must be redefined to include social, environmental, and interpersonal wellbeing.

CONGRATULATIONS!

You've just taken a big step toward mastering the most intimidating part of the GAMSAT: Section 2.

With the Section 2 Slam System, you now have a clear, repeatable framework to rely on. No more staring at the quotes in panic. No more writing 4 weak paragraphs just to fill the page. Instead, you can walk into the exam with a structure that works under pressure — one that consistently gets students scoring 70+.

What you've learned in this guide is just a glimpse of what's possible. The Slam System is the foundation, but the students who break into the top percentiles are the ones who practise with real high-scoring essays, get personalised feedback, and train consistently.

And that's exactly what I help students do every year. I've coached 800+ students across Australia, the UK, and Ireland — from those who bombed their first attempt to those chasing 80+ — and I know I can help you too.

If you:

- Struggle with depth and want to see exactly how high-scoring essays are built
- Want your direct feedback on your essays with specific, actionable feedback instead of vague comments like "lacks insight,"
- Are ready to train in a structured way so you can write essays under exam conditions without stress...

...then you're in the right place.

Because now, instead of dreading Section 2, you can actually use it as a weapon to boost your GAMSAT score and secure your spot in med school.

👉 On the next page, I'll show you the best next step to keep this momentum going.

Hey Rohan! How did your GAMSAT in September go?

Hey Rohan, I got an 81 in Section 2, a tremendous jump from 50 in my previous sitting. Your teachings about what examiners want, ideas and how to structure helped tremendously which is why I saw a huge jump. Thanks Man!

Hey Rohan hope you're well too! I scored 9 point better in S1! Thank you for your help. 😊

Hey Rohan! I just wanted to let you know that I got accepted into USYD's DMD program. Thank you very much for all of your help and support throughout my gamsat studying!

★★★★★ 3 weeks ago New

Rohan was extremely helpful and has a wealth of knowledge on the GAMSAT sections. His classes were articulate, covered loads of content and his concern for my progression was demonstrated many many times the time he spent and the genuine confidence he had in my abilities.

Thank you again Rohan.

Rohan! just got my gamsat results back and i got a 70, which is an 8 pt case from my previous 62

Rohan, hope you're well. Just wanted to let you know that I was able to score a 75 (6 marks up from last year) for the gamsat and wanted to thank you for all your help for the past 2 years. It has helped me tremendously not only in terms of improving my marks, but I feel that I've learned a lot. I got an offer for dmd at USYD and will be starting next year. Thank you again and all the best!

Rohan brought a unique perspective and method to my S2 essays. Using his approach, I was able to develop a style of writing that was versatile and successful for the gamsat! His teaching style and method allows students to go further than what's taught by prep companies, school and uni. Highly recommended!

Huge shoutout to Rohan, who has been incredible help to me not only on my GAMSAT journey but also giving me the right attitude and mindset. Rohan guided me how to finally break past the 70+ mark and I was able to obtain a score of 81 in S2 thanks to his teachings. He is super patient, knowledgeable, and friendly. I cannot recommend him enough!

Hi Rohan,

I hope this message finds you well. I wanted to share the exciting news that I've been accepted into dentistry. I truly appreciate all the support and guidance during GAMSAT S1 preparation. You have made a significant difference, and I can't thank you enough.
